

BARN COMPLEX CONVERTED TO DOMESTIC DWELLINGS.

These ancient traditional sandstone barns have been sympathetically converted into modern and contemporary family homes. The history and character of the properties has been retained, with for example, the use of traditional style roof lights and the extensive use of green slate roofs.

To ensure a contemporary and modern feel to the houses, open and flowing rooms have been incorporated into the existing fabric of the buildings.

A large amount of insulation has been introduced into each home. This ensures that the running costs of each home are kept to as small a level as possible.

Each dwelling was completed with the input of the new owners to ensure that a smooth handover of the buildings into their continued care.
